

About Nexus

Nexus supports strong, equitable and just communities in which all residents are engaged, are recognized as leaders and have pathways to opportunities. The key to building more engaged and powerful communities of color lies in the connections between authorship, leadership and ownership. Learn more about Nexus on our website.

Nexus is both a grant-maker and grant-seeker. We hope our experience informs our work and relationships. We do our best to be clear, flexible and impactful; we look for partnership and feedback for continual improvement.

The Storytelling Engagement Community Projects are funded by Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, under our Community Leadership Learning Initiative. Through re-granting and the advanced practitioner learning community, we hope to bring partners working in different sectors and cultural communities together to address our common and systemic challenges. The solutions emerge because of how we set the table; grounding partnerships in shared values and principles, nurturing authentic relationships, and creating intentional space for shared learning and impact.

The Community Leadership Learning Initiative will deepen our collective understanding of community-centered leadership, while raising the visibility and demonstrating the value of this powerful work to the field of philanthropy and the broader ecosystem of leadership and community development.
